A Mistake.

The impression appears to prevail among many Democrats that we have no Job Office connected with the SEN. TINEL office. This is a mistake. There is no office in the city that is so well prepared to do all kinds of BOOK AND JOB PRINTING as we are (except large bill posters), and we will feel under obligations to all Democrats, not only in the city, but in the State, for any work they can send to our office. We have no public patronage to depend on to aid the paper-we ask the party to aid us with their work, as far as they can. We can do as good work, and on as good terms, as any other office.

SPEECHES OF Hendricks and Voorbees.

The speech of Hon. Thomas A. Hendricks, before the Democratic Convention on the Eighth of January, 1862, and the speech of Hon. Daniel W. Voorhees, in the House of Representatives, February 20, on the duty of the Federal Government in its relations to the civil war and the objects for which it should be prosecuted, are for sale at this office, published in a pamphlet of sixteen pages, including both speeches. Each one is among the ables delivered on the present crisis, and should be placed in the hands of every voter in the State.

The first issue having been entirely exhausted, we are now reprinting a large edition to supply the increasing demand.

Those living off express routes must provide for prepaying the postage, which is one cent per copy. Price #1 per hundred. All orders promptly filled.

"THE SULLIVAN AFFAIR."-We publish, in nother column, a letter addressed to the editor of the Indianapolis Journal from certain Republican citizens of Sullivan county, having reference to the melancholy accident by which Protessor Miles J. Fletcher lost his life. It was outrageous and brutal that the editor of that print, for the purpose, as he mistakenly conceived, of subserving partisan ends, should so harrow the feelings of the relatives and friends of Professor Fletcher, by bringing unfounded accusations against the citizens of a respectable community. Professor Fletcher was a good man, an honorable gentleman. We knew him well. We mourned his sudden demise. Sincerely, and without any desire to do anything else than to pay a deserved tribute to one of the best and most honored of our public men, who had fallen in the performance of his duty, have we said what we have said about the fatal matter. The editor of the Journal, however, is a malignant, without the excuse of stapidity. He knows well enough when he pens a lie, and he is facile daily a this regard. He is a boot-licker of the powers that be, and all the more contemptible therefor, because everybody knows that he has the sense which ought to become a man. Why, in reply to the letter of which we are speaking. could be not have the magnanimity to say that he was mistaken? He is called upon for the name of his informant. He does not give it. We have the name of the individual who prompted him, and it would startle the whole State of Indiana if we should give it.

> The subject of lake defenses and lake commerce was very fully and forcibly presented this morning at a meeting of the New York delegawho appeared on behalf of the State. The principle topics discussed were the undefended condition of the lakes and the great extent and rapid growth of the commerce of the waters, and also the vital importance of the cereal products of the States surrounding the lakes in furnishing the elements of foreign commerce, consequently in swelling the amount of duties on imports to be > received in exchange. The two cordial measures growing out of these discussions and which must occupy the attention of Congress will be the opening of adequate channels from the eastern and western extremities of the lakes. The first is to be effected by enlarging the locks on the Erie and Oswego canal and the other, by the eplargment of the canal from Chica go to the Illinois river. It is hoped that these two great measures may be invited as integral portions of our harmonious system, extending from the Mississippi, permitting the passing throughout the line of mail clad vessels, sufficient for the defence of the great waters.

HOUSE.-The House resumed the consideration of the confiscation bill. Mr. Voorhees of Indiana reviewed the financial policy which has governed the Administration since it came into power, characterizing it as unsound, unwise and ruinous. The criminals who have been plundering the Treasury have not been brought to justice. History will, on this subject, cause every lover of his country to bow his head, while his cheeks burn with shame because of the extravagance and shamelessness of expenditures at a time when the nation was struggling for life, by means of mismanagement and fraud. The public debt will be one-sixth of the entire wealth of the country. Now the proportion to every voter is $200, and twelve months evidence that any other people had been so burhees's figures as to expenditures. Mr. Kelly was severe upon Mr. Voorhees, and accused him of sympathizing with traitors, saving that Floyd, Cobb and others were thieves under the gentleman's own party Administration. The present condition of the country was the natural result of the treatment the people received at the hands of the Democratic party. It made our country the plunderer of nations provided they were feeble. Fillibustering became identified with Democracy during the last two Administrations. Considering all their corruptions it ent Administration.

Dr. J. BOVEE DODS' IMPERIAL WINE BITTERS

Are prepared by an eminent and skillful physician, who has used them successfully in his practice for the last twenty-five years. The proprietor, before purchasing the exclusive right to manufacture and sell Dr. J. Bovee

Dods' Celebrated Imperial Wine Bitters, had them tested by two distinguished medical practitioners, who pronounced them a valuable remedy for disease. Although the medical men of the country, as a general thing, disapprove of Patent Medicines, yet we do not be-Heve that a respectable Physician can be found in the United States, acquainted with their medical properties,

WINE BITTERS. In all newly settled places, where there is always a large quantity of decaying timber, from which a poisonous miasma is created, these bitters should be used every morning before breakfast. These truly valuable Bitters have been so thoroughly

THE public can now be supplied with my patented apparatus for Cooking and Heating by Gas and Air. which are now coming into very general use, and to which I beg leave to call the attention of housekeepers and gas companies. Many attempts have been made to use gas in cookery and for beating apartments, but most of them have failed to meet the expectations of inventors and consumers. In the apparatus furnished by me, the requisites of Economy, Comfort, Neatness, Convenience, Uniformity of Result, and Improvement in the Quality of the Food, have been attained. From the peculiar manner of combustion, all possibility of creating smoke or noxious and unwholesome vapor is prevented. The meats retain all their juices, and acquire a rich and delicate fiavor, which no other process can impart. Much time and labor are saved in attendance, making of fires, &c., while the perfection and uniformity of the result are of great importance. The process of reasting bread and pastry is a great improvement over the usual method of baking in Gas Stoves for warming Hotel Rooms, Parlors, Sleeping Rooms, Offices, Nurseries, Students' Rooms, Bathing Rooms, Green Houses, &c., in the most pleasant and economical manner, are always on hand, and in preparation. These stoves are constructed upon entirely different principles from any other gas stoves before offered to the public. They do not produce smoke or disagreeable odors of any kind, if the directions for use are complied with: have no connection with any chimney; and can be used in any part of an "partment. Many thousands are now in daily use, and have given entire satisfaction.

TESTIMONIALS. From a very large number of testimonials we present

[From Dr. C. F. Hoffendahl, M. P.] Mr. W. F. Shaw-Dear Sir: Having used your Gas Stoves n my house for a number of years, I can cheerfully testify to their utility both for cooking and heating.

paratus for broiling beefsteak by heat produced from burning illuminating gas in mixture with atmospheric air has lately been invented by Mr. W. F. Shaw, of Boston, who has produced many sterling inventions for applying gas and air heat to chemical, culinary, manufacturing, and domestic purposes. The last invention is really a most useful and scientific novelty, inasmuch as the toughest beefsteak, when broiled in this apparatus, is equally Diseases and Weakness peculia: to Females, where as tender as sirloin steak broiled over a coal fire. The a Tonic is required to strengthen and brace principal product of combustion from the burning mixture is pure vapor of water at a very high temperature, by which the albumen of the muscular fiber which is on the surface of the steak is immediately coagulated and firm et, so that the juices of the meat are all retained, and in a few moments are converted into heated vapors, which, being thus confined, break and rend the fibers of the meat, and loosen their texture through the mass. The apparatus is perfectly simple and easily understood, and is used by merely slipping the end of a flexible hose over any ordinary burner.

It can also be used for other purposes—such as broiling, frying, or heating smoothing-irons. The irons intended to be used with it are cast hollow, with ascending and descending flues inside. When the irons are to be heated, you have merely to remove the broiler, and place the irons over holes which lead the heat to their interior. The expense of heating irons is but one cent per hour, and an iron can be heated in five minutes' time. For economy, convenience, cleanliness, and general utility, it is the most perfect and desirable article for the purpose for which is attributed to surrounding the flame with finely perforated metal, the application of which to this purpose has been patented by W. F. Shaw in America, England, [From Joseph M. Wightman, Boston.] Mr. Wm. F. Shaw-Bear Sir. Among the many useful contrivances for culmary purposes which you have made,

In the usual process of broiling over coals, and particu-larly over an anthracite fire, the heat is dry, and the little capsules which retain the natural juices of the meat are shriveled and parched, so as to render the steak dry and tough; while in your patent Gas Broiler the combustion of gas produces water (this may be seen by holding a cold plate or piece of metal over the chimney of an argand burner, on which the water will be condensed), which by the heat is converted into steam intensely heated. The steak is consequently surrounded by a moist heat which prevents the outside from becoming crisp and hard while the interior portion of the steak is being cooked. The effect of this is, that a steak which would be tough if

The stove for ironing I regard as a desideratum long needed in housekeeping. The fatigue and exhaustion occasioned by many hours spent at the ironing-table, in a room heated to the ordinary temperature, is all spared by using your stove, which heats the irons quickly, and leaves a comfortable room. This stove is equally successful as a broiler. Much more might be said in simple justice to this great invention, were it nec-
